

FOIAb3b

Of People . .

Former CIA Official Named

Mr. Banks

W. L. Banks, former division chief of the Central Intelligence Agency, has joined the Honeywell Electronic Data Processing Division as senior adviser on applications of computer technology to the petroleum and petrochemical industries. Mr. Banks has had 25 years of experience in petroleum and petrochemicals and has been technical director of the National Petroleum Refiners Association for the last six years.

CPYRGHT